WHIG NOMINATION.

FOR DELEGATE TO CONGRESS

JAMES COLLINS

OF IOWA COUNTY.

Mexico—Her Government—Population—Resources—Army—Navy—future prospects for perpetuity.

☞ At this period of public affairs, when there seems a strong probability of a war between this country and Mexico, it may not be uninteresting to give a general synopsis of the power and resources of the opposing Nation. The Washington Union in a recent editorial gave some general statistics in relation to Mexico, which enables us more fully to delineate what the head of this article specifies, and from which we have taken the liberty of making extracts.

In the apparent approximation of national affairs in North America to a continental centralization, or, in other words, the inevitable emancipation of all the colonies in America from foreign rule, and their erection as States, and consequent union in our General Government, attention has been turned with much solicitude toward Mexico. Next to the United States, she is the principal National government on the Northern continent—if such a system of political existence, and social compact can be considered a government. Mexico was formerly styled the United States of Mexico, but it is officially denominated the "Mexican Republic," and very properly, as the government is not in any sense that of a confederation of States, but a consolidated central one. According to the constitution adopted in June, 1843, styled the "Bases of Political Organization of the Mexican Republic," the territory comprises what were during the Spanish sway, the vice-royalty of New-Spain, Yucatan, the internal provinces east and west, Upper and Lower California and the Chiapas.

This territory—excepting the Californias and Texas—is now divided by law into departments, with an estimated population for each as follows, namely:

Aguascalientes,	69,698
Chiapas,	141,306
Chihuahua,	147,600
Coahila,	75,440
Durango,	162,618
Guanajuato,	512,606
Jalisco,	679,311
Mexico,	1,389,520
Michoacan,	497,906
Nueve Leon,	101,108
Nuevo Mexico,	58,026
Oajaca,	500,278
Puebla,	661,902
Queretaro,	123,560
San Luis Potosi,	321,840
Sinaloa,	147,000
Sonora,	124,000
Tabasco,	62,580
Tamaulipas,	100,068
VeraCruz,	254,380
Yucatan,	590,948
Zacatecas,	273,375
Total,	6,982,079

To which add the Californias, with a population estimated three years since at only 33,439, but somewhat greater at the present time.

Of the whole population (say) 7,000,000 souls, it is estimated that more than one-seventh are whites; the remaining six-sevenths consist of Indians and half-breeds, with some few negroes.

Political rights are confined to citizens, who consist of Mexicans of the age of 21 if unmarried, or 18 if married, and who possess a yearly income of $200 derived from capital or labor.

The elections are held biennally, under the following forms:

"All the inhabitants of each department are supposed to be divided into partidos of 500 each, the citizens in which choose primary electors at the rate of one for each partido; the primary electors then meet and choose secondary electors at the rate of one secondary for every twenty primary electors; all of whom, primary and secondary, are required to have each a yearly income of five hundred dollars; and the secondary electors, chosen by this double process, constitute, in each department, its electoral college, by whom are elected the deputies to the Congress and the members of the assembly of the department; which last elect the President of the Republic and two-thirds of the Senators."

The Government of the Republic consists of the following officers:

1. The President, who is elected for five years, and whose powers and duties resemble those of the President of the United States, but he cannot exercise any of his functions without the instrumentality of the minister to whose branch of the public service the act to be performed belongs. He is expressly forbidden to alienate any part of the territory of the republic; and he cannot, without the permission of Congress, command the military and naval forces of the republic in person, nor depart more than six leagues distant from the seat of government.

2. The four Ministers of foreign relations, of justice, of the treasury, and of war, who are appointed by the President.

3. A Congress, consisting of the Senate, composed of sixty-three members, elected for six years, renewable in classes every two years, as in the U. States; two-thirds of each class being elected by the department assemblies, and one-third by the President of the Republic and the Supreme Court; and a Chamber of Deputies, composed of members chosen by the electoral colleges of departments, in the ratio of one deputy for every seventy thousand inhabitants. The whole number is now 104.—All bills originate in the Chamber of Deputies; but the Senate and the President participate in their enactment, as in the United States.

4. A Council of State, consisting of seventeen members, appointed for life by the President.

5. The Supreme Court, consisting of eleven Judges, elected by the departmental assemblies, who try impeachments, &c.

6. The departmental assemblies, possessed of various minor local functions, in subordination always to the legal authority of Congress.

7. The governors of departments, appointed by the President.

When it is reflected that the army participates largely in the Government; that public affairs are discussed and votes taken upon them by the troops as such; that not one in seven of the inhabitants can read or write; that the governing class consists of only one-seventh of the population; that the complicated system of election tends to restrict and exclude popular influence; that all the resources of the country are squandered on a large standing army; that every year or two witnesses a civil war and a military revolution in the government; we repeat, when all these things are considered, it will be easy to comprehend the state of disorganization and misrule which weigh down the Mexican Republic.

A system of social compact, so little calculated to guarantee protection to persons and property, it will at once be seen, cannot exist for any great length of time in an age like the present, when the science of human government is daily becoming simplified and made easy for the comprehension of all, and when laws are acquiesced in by the governed on the voluntary principle. It is in the nature of things. Even in Europe, the influence of the age yearly brings about some amelioration of the condition of the great mass of the people, and each day is witnessing some new inroad upon the "divine right of Kings"—some concession on the part of hereditary rulers to their liege subjects.

This tendency is produced by the influence of the United States upon the civilized world—an influence which has predicated the (by us) demonstrated fact, that man is capable of self-government—and that the voluntary principle of government, (when the masses are intelligent,) is sufficient to protect mankind in all their inalienable rights, and secure to the human family the greatest state of national prosperity and social felicity.—This influence of free principles gathers strength as it progresses, and ere it stops it will strip the tinselled purple from the person of royalty itself, and prostrate all the thrones of the world in the dust.

But to return. The anarchial state of public affairs in Mexico render it utterly impossible for that government to make even a decent show of resistance against us, to say nothing of the offensive demonstration she will be expected to show, by declaring war. Out of a population of 7,000,000 of these people it will hardly be possible for her to raise over 200,000 fighting men—all told; and not more than one-eighth of these could ever be marched beyond her limits. Her Navy consists of the Steamer Guadaloupe, 778 tons; two 68 pounders amid-ships, four 12 pound carronades, and one mortar.

Steamer Montezuma, 1100 tons; one 68 pounder amid-ships, two 32 pounders for carronades, and one mortar.

Brig Mexicano; one 12 pounder amid-ships, and fourteen 18 pound carronades.

Brig Veracruzano Libre; one 32 pounder amid-ships, six 18 pound carronades, and two 12 pound carronades.

Schooner Aguila; one 32 pounder amid-ships, and eight carronades.

Schooner Libertad; one 12 pounder amid-ships.

Gaffiopsail schooner Merelos; one 12 pounder amid-ships.

Five gunboats, each carrying a 24 pounder amid-ships.

Seven vessels—five gunboats—and 51 guns, of all calibres.

According to the statements of the Mexican newspapers, the greater part of these vessels, excepting the two steamers and the three new gunboats, are in a very bad state, and require great repairs so as to make them last some time longer. All of them, without one exception, are in want of men, of rigging, and other indispensable necessaries, to fit them out for sea, in order to do some service.

The idea that Mexico alone is capable of making anything like a decent military or naval demonstration against this country is preposterous. If, as we have hitherto stated, she proceeds to extremities, it will be with the pledge from the British government of receiving from that power assistance. This assurance we think she has already had. Let hostilities once commence, and within three months thereafter, Gen. Scorr's Army Orders will commence thus:

"Head Quarters, American Army,
City of Mexico, Nov. — '45.

"I have the honor herewith to transmit to the Honorable Secretary of War the accompanying documents from the provisional government of Mexico, by which it will be observed that the various Departments, composing the former "Republic of Mexico," are desirous of becoming annexed to the American Union, and being erected individually into States, upon the same footing with the other States of that Union," &c. &c. &c.

But a truce to episode. A system of government so weak, imbecile and inefficient as Mexico, cannot be of long duration. Constantly convulsed with intestine broils, the laws of the country afford no protection to life or property, and cannot restrain the enactment of scenes of barbarity before the sight of which humanity would shudder. It may well be considered a question of policy whether or not it is the duty of our Government to interfere, by suppressing all such neighborhood quarrels and preserving the peace of the continent.

We are no advocates for conquest. We regard war as the greatest of National calamities, and any encroachments on the rights of neighboring nations on our part as extremely unjust—but when a long series of years roll by, marked with all the disastrous consequences of civil war among our neighbors, and those disturbances affording a pretext for the officious interference of foreign powers, it does seem—aye, it is our duty to step forth and restore the peace of the continental neighborhood, and evince to the crowned heads of Europe that there is sufficient justice, magnanimity and energy in our Government to preserve the peace of America, without, in any degree, the aid of their services.

TO WOODWARD'S TO-NIGHT!

☞ In consequence of the inclemency of the weather, the Balloon Ascension that was to have taken place last evening at Woodward's garden, was postponed to this evening. Let every man, woman and child attend, as the exhibition will be well worth witnessing.

BEAUTIFUL.—Music for the Melancholy. Aye—let it be breathed over the despondingheart, even if it be buried in gloom, like the landscape at midnight, ere long you shall see cheerfulness climbing up the horizon of despair, like the moon beyond the mountains, hallowing every thing with a light, softer from the very darkness it illumes, and more bland than the moontide of unclouded joy. Yes—pour forth the mystic soul of song, and the downcast brow shall lose its cloud of care, the eye shall anon beam with its wonted cheer, and the cheek grow radiant with smiles.

Music for the mourner. Not the wild measures that lead the dance, or that rouse wrath in the tempest of battle. O no—soft as angel whisperings, and plantive as the moanings of the anguished heart, be the tones that would balm the stricken in heart. Let them murmur of blighted hope, and buried love, till the crushed feelings are indentified with the sympathetic strain. But bid not the thought long wander in the grave. Let the melody, embodied as it were, into a thousand Irised hues, gild the portals of the tomb, and stream like the auroral glory, toward Heaven.

Education in the West.

For the Daily Sentinel.

MR. EDITOR:—

One thing delights me much in the character of your paper. You aim to call the attention of our citizens to all those improvements which will be of lasting utility both to our young city and to the Territory. In this respect I have marked your course with the highest satisfaction Your timely editorials in relation to the great Rail road, the ship canal, a comprehensive system of common school education, "et cetera," are examples in point. This feature of your print makes it worthy of the majestic West which it represents.

I have also noticed with pleasure the able articles of your correspondent on the subject of common schools. There is a clear vein of New England wisdom and foresight running through them. Let them be earnestly meditated and harmoniously acted upon by our enterprising citizens.

To show that there are able and disinterested minds out of the Territory who think with you, I send you the annexed article from the editorial correspondence of the "N. E. Puritan." It contains, substantially, the same thoughts which were urged at the Beloit Convention by one who was opposed to the immediate establishment of a college at that place. In less than a year, three large conventions have been called for the purpose of locating a collegiate institute,—while not one has been called by the same gentlemen, in four years, to consider the subject of "common schools!" This is aiming to build a magnificent structure without laying one foundation stone. While the walls of that college are going up, our present youthful population will have passed beyond the reach of any system of popular education.

But there is a world of romance cemented with the founding of a college. Besides there is the same immortal fame attending it which has embalmed the name of Romulus, the founder of Rome. Even a splendid failure, in so great an undertaking, would be about as sure to immortalize the man, as the burning of the temple of Diana did the incendiary Herostratus. But let the people of Wisconsin awake to their real wants and they will feel that the founding of common schools is a far nobler work. These will open the living arteries which will conduct intellectual nutrition to all the extremities of our population.

Here is the article:—

EDUCATION IN THE WEST.

"We are not sure that our present plans of educating at the West are not capable of some improvement. It is a question whether it is wise to confine our systematic operations for Western education to Colleges and Theological Seminaries.

Now, though we rejoice in all that is done to promote collegiate and theological education at the West, and feel that the West must have these colleges, we are inclined to think, that in the present posture of things, if the churches would double the amount of their contributions to Western education, and appropriate the same amount which they are now giving to the higher seminaries to those of a lower grade, the immediate results of the latter appropriation would be fourfold that of the former. Were we to aid to establish academies and other schools under a religious influence the results would be seen at once. Young men and women would at once come forth from them to be teachers, and a new impulse would be given to the cause of general education. New attractions would be put forth to attach the mass of the people to our religion, through our educational institutions; and the impulse thus given to the intellect of the rising generation would create a demand for colleges, and make the Western people themselves feel the need of facilities for the higher branches of education, being prompted by the aspirations of their own children.

As it is, the infant colleges are sustained at great expense before the public mind comes into sympathy with them. As an illustration, take one of the best of these colleges, the Western Reserve. This, with its seven teachers, is supported at an expense of about $10,000 a year. It has about sixty students, about forty of whom are preparing for the ministry. This ten thousand then causes to graduate about ten students for the ministry in a year, which is a thousand dollars to a student graduated. Now leaving out of view the more remote results of the two forms of education, we should say at once that a thousand dollars a year, which might sustain a good academy at the West, and afford instruction to many pupils, would be vastly more productive of present results than the graduating of one student at the West, which might as well be done at the East.

There is another consideration. What we do for colleges does nothing for female education.—Here we leave untouched a vast source of influence. Female mind and female influence, in its sphere, is not second to that of males. Now if we had at every important point our academies under the fostering care of religious, benevolent institutions, securing to them a religious influence and religious teachers, we should be able to secure the training of the choicest of female mind for the service of Christ and of the truth, and in this way be doing a work as important and as necessary as that of educating young men."

☞ The pending treaty between the commissioners of the United States and the Pottawatamies has been broken off.

The Pottawatamies own about 5,000,000 acres of land which the government desired to purchase at 10 cents, but the chiefs would not take less than 15 cents per acre.

The principal objection to the Pottawatamies was that they did not desire to remove to the south side of the Missouri, in the vicinity of the Pawnees and other hostile tribes.—[St. Louis New Era, July 7.

From the New York Express.

Great Fire at Matanzas—Loss estimated at $800,000.

It appears by a Matanzas paper of the 27th ult., that a severe calamity has befallen the rich city of Matanzas. At 8½ o'clock, A. M., the bells of the Parish Church announced that the richest part of the city was seized by the flames. In fact, the fire had burst out, as we are informed, in a carpenter's shop, in the "Mariana," where a large collection of timber supplied abundance of fuel to the flame. The fire immediately extended to the adjacent buildings, which were all of wood and of such age as to be highly combustible, so that the conflagration extended rapidly toward the Royal Custom House, on the opposite corner, and to the house of Don Bartolome de la Mater, which was soon seized by the devouring element, threatening to consume the whole town. It is three o'clock in the afternoon, and we have just left the scene of the catastrophe; and while the ruins of the edifices of the whole Marina are consuming, the principal block and another adjoining it having disappeared. A great part of the contiguous blocks in the West have also been destroyed in part. We may truly say that what has been the general depot of the great part of the commercial wealth of their city, has now been made a prey to the flames.

The loss has been incalculable, and consternation so strong that the streets were blocked up with men, women and children, flying for their lives from the flames The splendid house of Don Vicente de Junco has been destroyed.

The fire had hardly commenced when we had the satisfaction of seeing all the authorities of the town upon the spot to whose exertions it is owing that the losses have not been more extensive.

Villainous Treason!

Some of the Abolitionists in Massachusetts, are circulating the following pledge:

1. Believing that an oath or affirmation to support the Constitution of the United States is utterly irreconcilable with the freedom of the slave, We the undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves not to vote for a candidate for any office, the entrance upon which requires such oath or affirmation.

2 We, the undersigned, hereby pledge ourselves not to countenance or aid the United States Government in any war which may be occasioned by the annexation of Texas, or any other war, foreign or domestic, designed to strengthen or perpetuate slavery." The first pledge is certainly an improvement upon that of James G. Birney, who is both ready to swear to support the Constitution and then to violate it As for the last, 'we shall see what we shall see.' The Abolitionists are responsible for the annexation of Texas, and ought to bear the wole brunt of any and all wars growing out of annexation.—[N. Y. Express.

A NEW HOT BED.—Mr. W. P. Dennis of Rockford in Winnebago county, in dressing a wild duck, noticed something protruding through the coats of the gizzard about three fourths of an inch in length, in appearance like a germ of corn sprouting from the ground. On opening the gizzard it was found to be an actual sprout, proceeding from a pit or stone something like a tamarind. The whole sprout was about two inches in length, and the stone was bedded in a muddy substance of which that part of the gizzard was full.

The pit and sprout were transplanted to the earth, and the latter is now six inches in height, and growing finely.

NOTICES OF PROTEST.—A decision has been made by the Supreme Court of Michigan with which our public notaries should be acquainted These officials, in giving notice that a draft or note has been protested, are in the habit of using a printed form, in which the drawer or endorser is notified that such a note or draft "has been protested for non-payment;" but the Supreme Court of Michigan decides that notice of this fact is not sufficient; the notice must say expressly that the draft or note has been presented for payment and that payment has been refused.—N. Y. C. Adv.

A PAINFUL SIGHT.—The Nantucket Inquirer says: "To see young men loung ing about month after month, neither working nor desiring to work, while others—perhaps poor parents—are toiling from morning till night, to support and save them from a disgrace which their own thoughtlessness and laziness is fast bringing upon them. But, how many such sights are to be seen in every community. How many are found who have not the sense of shame, which is necessary to force them off the lounger's seat, but enough of that false pride which will not allow them to take hold of employment, if it does not happen to be genteel and profitable. Alas, the fate of such is sealed; they will go down to the grave unloved but by their mothers, unmourned but by their companions in idleness—and soon to be forgoten by all."

☞ Governor DODGE returned to this place on Thursday last from his visit to the Winnebagoes. His efforts to make a treaty whith them for the purchase of their country, we are informed, were unsuccessful. Three commisions have before been sent for this puapose, whitout sncess, and the manner in which these negotiations have deen conducted seems to have had a tendency to distract their minds, and unsettle their confidence. They express great reluctance to moving south, into the prairies, and a strong preference to remaining where they are. The resolution of the U. S. Senate prohibiting the allowance by treaty of the traders' claim and half-breed locations, has furthermore, brought an undue but powerful influence to bear against the policy of the government in respect to making treaties whith them. Gov. DODGE is of opinion that a treaty with them can only be made by assembling their chiefs at the city of Washington. Their proximity to the whites, and consequent exposure to strong drink, is said to have reduced them to a most degraded condition. Seventeen years ago, we were accustomed to behold the Winnebago as among the most noble of the sons of the forest; but he has fallen before the all-conqering spirit of alcohol.—[Wisconsin Argus.

AMERICAN HOUSE.

THIS large and commodious establishment situated in the most most central part of the city, has recently been purchased by the subscribers, and fitted up and furnished in the most superb style. The house will be under the superintendence of O G DORWIN, recently of the Cleveland House, Ohio, who hopes by the most assiduous attention to the wants of travelers, to receive the patronage of all his old friends, and as many new ones as he can "skate up."
The omnibus and baggage wagon will always be in attendance at the boats, to convey passengers and their baggage to the House, free of expense. Excellent stabling for horses.

SUPPORT HOME MANUFACTURE.
MILWAUKIE TOBACCO FACTORY.
The subscriber would respectfully inform the citizens of Milwaukie, and inhabitants of the western world, that he has opened an extensive establishment for the manufacture of Tobacco, Snuff, Cigars, &c. in its various branches, which he pledges himself to be equal to any in the Union. He would modestly insinuate to Merchants and others about going east, that they can get a BETTER article, and have it constantly FRESH, and for the same money, to say nothing of the gratifying reflection of having supported Home Manufacture.

PROLAPSUS UTERI.

THIS troublesome disease is cured by the use of Hull's Uliero Abdominal Supporter; from the many certificates in its favor we select only the following of Doctor Ashwell.—After its successful trial in Guy's hospital, the following certificate was handed to Dr. Hull's London Agent, for public use:—

13 Devonshire Square, London, Mar. 17, 1838.

"Having tried Dr. Hull's instrument for the cure of Prolapsus and Procidentia Uteri, I am glad to express a highly favorable opinion of its utility. In a severe case of entire Procidentia, lately under treatment at Guy's Hospital, it was applied with marked success. Its great superiority over the pessary consists in its affording efficient support to the weakened abdominal integuments, and in its external application, instead of its introduction into the vagina. I quite think it will accomplish a permanent cure better and more quickly than the pessary. SAMUEL ASHWELL, M. D.
Obstetric Physician, and Lecturer to Guy's, London.

Sir Astley Cooper, after the apparatus had been several months under his inspection, gave the following opinion for publication:—

"This apparatus is beautiful for its simplicity; it is an acquisition to practice. The principle of its operation is quite original and perfect. I shall advise its use, and make use of it in my own practice, in preference to anything I have seen."

The above valuable instrument can be found at the Medical store of the undersigned, who is the agent for the sale of the same in Wisconsin.

BOOK BINDING.

HALE & HOPKINS have recently replenished their stock of materials in this department of their business, and are now prepared to execute all orders in this line, especially JOB and BLANK WORK, in every style and with greater dispatch than can be had elsewhere west of Buffalo. They have a force equal to the wants of the Territory, having just obtained workmen from the east, whose skill is unsurpassed there or here in style and beauty of finish and workmanship.

They do not profess to "work cheaper and better" than their neighbors, such boasts being well understood—but with as much skill, greater dispatch, and as "cheap as the cheapest." july9

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT CHARLES E. WOLSEY of Milwaukie has this day assigned to me, the undersigned all his property and effects for the benefit of certain creditors, mentioned in said assignment; and all persons indebted to said Wolsey, are hereby notified to make payment to me and no other. The manufacture of pails, tubs, and churns, will be continued as before, and all orders made to me for the above wares, will receive prompt attention.
